Daniel Beaty, award-winning actor, singer and writer will perform at St. Bonaventure University at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 15, at The Regina A. Quick Center for the Arts Rigas Family Theater.

As an actor and singer, Beaty has worked in the classical and contemporary fields throughout the U.S., Europe and Africa in a variety of styles ranging from solo concerts to theatrical productions to opera.

"To present Daniel Beaty, whose previous stops have included The White House, The Kennedy Center and the Apollo, shows that as a university we continue to raise the bar on celebrating diversity," said Steve Plesac, director of student activities at SBU.

Beaty's program is comprised of original poetry on a variety of themes including following one's dreams, overcoming past pain, youth issues and the present state of black America.

His solo show, "Emergence-SEE!" has been reviewed as a "brilliant, spellbinding performance" by the Amsterdam News and "a dazzling 90 minutes full of memorable moments ... intense ... hilarious" by The New York Times.

As a motivational poet, Beaty has been featured on the third and fourth seasons of HBO's "Russell Simmons Presents Def Poetry," has been a guest with Reuben Studdard on NBC's "Showtime at the Apollo" and on Black Entertainment Television's "106 and Park." He won the 2004 Nuyorican Poet's Café Grand Slam Championship and Fox Network's National Redemption Slam.

Beaty holds bachelor's degrees in English and music from Yale University and a master's degree in acting from American Conservatory Theatre.

This event is sponsored by St. Bonaventure's Campus Activities Board in celebration of Black History Month. Admission is free.

'Music for the Mountain'

Folk music and favorites from Broadway musicals will be on tap Feb. 7 when Bob Donius and Peter Ghiloni present "Music for the Mountain," a free community concert at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 7, in Doyle Dining Hall on the St. Bonaventure campus.

The concert is a gift to the community from the fourth annual Mountain Auction, whose patrons and supporters of Mt. Irenaeus mountain retreat bid thousands in support of a concert to be donated by Donius, St. Bonaventure's vice president for University ministries, and Ghiloni, who serves as its director of liturgy and music ministry and is a clinician and lecturer on various ministry-related topics for Oregon Catholic Press, a major provider of liturgical materials.

This concert is a reprise of one offered in February 2004, the pair's first public performance, which drew a standing-room-only crowd. Both Ghiloni and Donius, who previously served in campus ministry in Alfred, are experienced liturgists and musicians.

The music will include the best of John Denver, Simon & Garfunkel, Broadway favorites and Irish ballads. An array of desserts and beverages will also be available as a way of celebrating Mardi Gras.

The concert is free and open to the public, although donations in support of the Mountain Auction will be accepted.
