GEORGE M. BALL

Corporal, Co. G

Comrade G. M. Ball died on Monday. His funeral service occurs from the M. E. church here, Wednesday, at 11 a. m. Sermon by Comrade Rev. J. M. Hammond and burial service by the Grand Army at Warsaw. G. M. Ball served several years in a New York regiment, and in a measure lost his health by diseased lungs. Some weeks ago he had an attack of pneumonia from which he seemed to recover, then came a relapse, which, in the last days, gave paralysis of one arm and a stupor, which passed for uremic toxemia. Though an invalid he held on to life with great tenacity until Monday noon, when he received his center shot.

MORRISTOWN.

MORRISTOWN, Jan. 6, 1887.

The funeral of Comrade G. M. Ball, of L. Pence Post, was largely attended yesterday. Reverend and Comrade J. M. Hammond preached the sermon at the M. E. church. Veterans from here and Warsaw turned out well. The Sons of Veterans here acted as escort. The burial was at the Warsaw cemetery. A hearse from the undertaking establishment of A. L. Hill served on the occasion. Mr. Ball was an invalid, took lung fever some time ago, partly recovered, and finally died as from apoplexy.

In neither one of the obits did it mention his wife and family.
