Koller,

The game was a thriller from start to finish, and but for a wide chuck by Cunningham which let in the winning run after two were out in the ninth, would have gone to extra innings. Command gave a marvelous pitching demonstration, averaging three strikeouts to an inning and making the Legion's best sluggers look foolish with his change of pace. And Art Sundling's pitching for the Legion was nothing to sneer at, either. The smiling big Swede whiffed out 16 of the Thompson outfit and kept the few hits off him well scattered except in the eighth inning, which proved is undoing.

With two regrettable exceptions the play was as clean as it was keen. In the seventh inning Otto Meyers charged pretty heavily into first on an infield tap, causing harsh words. Subsequently when Art Sundling was safe on first Brown tried some rough stuff which got him in bad with the audience, and which he probably regretted when he had time to think it over.

Both pitchers had a tendency to wildness and five of the Legion's and three of the Thompsons' runs can be directly attributed to wild pitches.

Legions got away to a lead of three in the initial round, when after two had fanned Cunningham, Miklas and Anderson in succession bumped Command for two-baggers, the latter scoring on a wild pitch. Legions added two in the third on a couple of wildpitch third strikes and a single by Anderson which bounced off the balcony railing. Thompsons tore off a cluster of three counts in the same frame after three had been struck out on wild pitch, infield boot and single. Command wild-pitched another run around for the Legion in the fifth and Thompsons got that one back in the sixth on two successive singles and a passed ball.

The eighth round opened with the score 6 to 4 for the Legion. Legion put one over through the medium of two bases on balls and an infield hit. In the Thompsons' half Sundling suffered a lapse from effectiveness, when the first three men up hit safely, two of the taps being infield scratches, which with a wild pitch on a third strike permitted four runs to trickle over the plate, putting Thompsons one to the good.

Sundling circled the bases for

Rapids pitching phenom, striking out 27 of the foe in the operation. last night led the Thompson Auto team into the "games won" column by achieving a hard-earned 9 to 4 victory over the American Legion team.

JAMES HUNT RESIDED IN CITY 50 YRS.

HAD BEEN EMPLOYED IN LOCAL MILLS AND FURNI- TURE FACTORY

James H. Hunt, whose funeral was held this afternoon at 1:30 from Bradford's undertaking parlors, was until three years ago, when he went to live at Buckley with his son, Burt, a resident of Manistee, living here for about 50 years. His death was caused by heart failure.

He was born 80 years ago in the state of New York, and came to Manistee at the age of 30, being employed here in the mills and later in the furniture factory. During the last 12 years of his residence in Manistee, he worked in the packing room of the Manistee Manufacturing company's factory.

During the Civil War he served three years with the 154th New York regiment, Co. E, in which he enlisted at the beginning of the war.

He is survived by one son, Burt Hunt of Buckley and two daughters, Mrs. Roy Swank and Mrs. Olive Conley of San Francisco. One brother in Merrill Wis., also survives him.

VIOLINS FIRST ON DISPLAY IN LOCAL EXHIBIT

FIVE PRODUCTS TO BE SHOWN IN LARSEN BUILDING UNTIL JAN. 1

The first of the Manistee manufacturers' exhibits which are to be given during the winter in the H. B. Larsen building windows, can now be seen in the east window. It is a violin display by the American Violin Manufacturing company.

The exhibit shows the various stages of violin production, from the raw blocks of wood, pieces which have been cut out into different parts of the violin, the assembled parts, and finally the complete violins, of which a fine selection is shown.

The display is well arranged and gives to the observer a good idea as to the production of violins. Other local products were to be placed today or tomorrow from the furniture factory, the Bates Woodturning plant, the shoe factory and Amazon chemical company. These five are to be displayed until Jan. 1.
