

Milligan, a former well known man, was blown to nitro-glycerine explosion at Wm. O., last week Thursday.

Orlando.

Will cut his thumb very easily cutting heading at his farm last Monday.

Are all through haying in and are very busy harvesting grain.

Has returned from Springville where she has been visiting Mr. Prior.

Blackmon got quite a fall

Drillers from Sugartown are putting down a well on the farm owned by Mrs. C. Lock.

Plenty of fruit and lots of picker and wife entertained Mr. and wife of Buffalo last

There last week for 8 days. Marion visited friends in town.

Friends and wife called on him several times.

Friends and wife entertained friends in town for 8 days last week.

COLVYN.

Wm. H. Colvyn, first son of Mr. and Mrs. Smith.

Has sold his farm at Colvyn to his son-in-law, Harry Colvyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth, who have just moved to New York.

Friends and family of Little

Rev. N. F. Langmade.

The East Ohio News says of this distinguished clergyman who was well known in this country:

The Rev. Nathan F. Langmade, whose sudden death was announced in these columns last week, was a native of the town of Yorkshire, this country. He was born in that town on September 21st, 1823.

The deceased was a son of Stephen and Asenath Langmade, and resided in Yorkshire until his marriage in June 1847, to Miss Lucina H. Bailey of Groveland, Livingstone Co., when the young couple began house-keeping at Arcade. They remained in Arcade for about seven years, when they moved to Yorkshire, where Mr. Langmade began his work as a minister of the gospel. Four years later, at East Ashford, he was ordained in the Baptist faith.

Mr. Langmade served in the Civil war from October 1861 until its close, as chaplain in Co. D., 134th N. Y. Vol. After he left the army he preached in East Ashford and since then he has held charges in Yorkshire, Freedom, East Otto, Hume, Great Valley, Humphrey, Five Mile, Cartersburg, Anna Creek, Pa. and Turtle Creek, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Langmade were the parents of three children, but one of whom, Mrs. F. C. Larabee of East Otto, is now living.

Mr. Langmade's character was above reproach, and his life was filled with kind and benevolent acts. He was conscientious and true to his principles, and labored in his chosen work with zeal and enthusiasm. It can truthfully said that the world was made better and happier through his having lived in it.

A Woman Tell How She Saved Her Little Grandchildren Late.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines.

WRIG STREET.

Mrs. Fred Windsor of Dublin a caller at Mrs. T. Fisher's, today.

Mrs. S. A. Markham visited daughter, Mrs. Frank Cross, in Valley, recently.

Miss Emma Cross of Great Valley, staying with her grandmother Mrs. S. A. Markham.

Mrs. Dewitt Wood of Little Valley visited at C. W. Field's, part of week.

Messrs. Floyd and Bert Hill wheeled to Bradford, last week today.

Mrs. Innie Meaden and Miss H. Whipple of New City are visiting their mother, Mrs. W. Whipple, a few weeks.

Mr. H. D. Leach and W. Wheeler were at Lime Lake, Fred C. A. Field and family and M. C. W. Field and Mrs. D. W. visited near Ellenville, one of last week.

Emery Winship and family visit near Ellenville, Sunday.

STAND BEHIND THE PRESIDENT.
Governor Roosevelt's emphatic & forcible speech on the Philippines drew attention.

Governor Roosevelt was recently succeeded in Washington by President M. McKinley for a month, and while in contact with the public he did particularly the popular speech which may be a portion of the speech addressed to the new recruits now being organized for the Cuban campaign. On return to New York after a visit to the President Roosevelt gave a speech in which he gave an explanation of the president's views in returning to put down the insurrection, and as he did so did much to quiet the popular mind.

On Sunday, July 26th, a meeting of the same Board of Trade and the press met in the room of the New York Stock