

he managed to get the most of it off." Our subject's brothers were in the service, Henry in 105th and Frederick in 2d Excelsior, N. Y. V. I. For the greater part of his service he was wagon-master. In Feb., 1865 he was discharged from the service of the U. S. Comrade Little, altho well up in years, is active and a very genial gentleman. He lives on a pleasant farm near Machias, N. Y.

HARLIN LOCKE.

In the town of Machias, N. Y., Aug. 27, 1840, Harlin, son of Chester and Amelia (Hollister) Locke, was born. He was engaged in farming when the gloom of civil strife rested upon our fair land; he responded to the President's call for brave boys to shoulder the musket and go forth to fight for the cause of the Union. July 30, 1862 he enlisted at Machias, N. Y. in Co. D, 154th N. Y. V. I., 2d brig., 2d div., 11th A. C. as a private or musician. He was to the front in the following engagements:- Chattanooga, Kenesaw Mt., Rocky Face Ridge, Reseca, Round Top, Marietta, before Atlanta, "March to the Sea," Campaign in the Carolinas; also Fredericksburg, Burnside's "Stick in the mud" and Chancellorsville. In Dec., 1862 while near Thoroughfare Gap he was sick with the typhoid fever, taken to field hospital, later to Findlay Hospital, Washington, confined there in the 8th ward until Jan., 1863 and at last sent to hospital on 10th and Christian Sts., Philadelphia; before rejoining his command he stayed in convalescent camp a short time. The fever settled in his left hip, rendering him very lame. Jan., 1863 he was given a furlough and came home, returning to his command sometime afterwards. While in the hospital he was detailed when able as fifer. June 11, 1865 at Bladensburg, Md. witnesses the discharge of our comrade. He left the army with a record of which any man might be proud. Aug. 17, 1865 at Machias, N. Y., Harlin Locke and Ellen J. Martin were united in marriage; she is a daughter of Benjamin and Lucy (Kidder) Martin. Six children were born to them: Bertha M., b. Sept. 25, 1867, Grace A., b. Jan. 13, 1869, Ionia A., b. Feb. 25, 1875, George M., b. August 30, 1873, Ella L. b. Feb. 2, 1877, and Louise Belle, b. Aug. 9, 1879. Grandfather, Increase Locke, and great-grandfather, Moses Locke, espoused the cause of the colonists and fought in the Revolution. Hiram Martin, the wife's brother, was in Co. D, 154th N. Y. V. I. Comrade Locke is one of those genial, whole-hearted men, a hard-working farmer, a respected citizen, and an esteemed G. A. R. boy. He lives on a large and fertile farm near Franklinville but in the town of Machias, N. Y. While in Savannah in Jan., 1865, small-pox broke out and the resolution was passed to prevent all negroes from entering the camp. One day three big wenchies entered the camp, and the boys tumbled the dusky strollers into their blankets. Of all the screaming and kicking those poor people did with their eyes bulged out in terror, and when they went up from the blanket they thought the Resurrection day had come.

JAMES M. LOCKWOOD

The son of Thomas and Fanny (France) Lockwood was born May 23, 1834 at Olean, N. Y. When the war cloud rolled up from the South he was employed as a cooper and boatman on the Allegheny river at Oil City, Pa. In Sept., 1864 he enlisted at Buffalo, N. Y., assigned to the quota from Erie, Pa., and mustered into the service as a landsman in the Brooklyn Navy yard; placed on the receiving ship "North Carolina" and about Dec. 1 was assigned to the gunboat "Pontusac." Meeting the coast squadron off Fort Fisher he was assigned to the frigate "Wabash" under Porter. The ship was 30 miles at sea when the powder boat, laden with 50 tons of powder, was sent against the beach at Fort Fisher. The explosion was felt by those on board, many being thrown from their hammocks. At the first attack on Fort Fisher the Wabash shelled it but was forced to retire from before the awful fire of the fort. Our Comrade was placed in the carpenters gang and served in this capacity until discharged. After the capture of Fort Fisher, Mr. Lockwood left the Wabash and went on a receiving ship to Fortress Monroe and placed on the "New Ironsides." They went up the James river to silence the rebel iron-clads. In the spring he was again transferred to the sloop-of-war "Powhatan" and they followed the Confederate ram "Stonewall" into the Havana Harbor, blockaded it for 14 days; rather than be captured, the Stonewall surrendered to the Spanish authorities. The ship then returned home, landing at Boston, and Comrade Lockwood was honorably discharged Aug. 15, 1865. June 6, 1867 at Hinsdale, N. Y. James M. Lockwood and Cora E. Hall were united in holy wedlock. She is the daughter of Moses and Elizabeth (Adams) Hall, and was born Sept. 6, 1848 at Whitney's Point, N. Y. Five children have added their blessings to their home: Minnie F., b. Mar. 17, 1877, Mary E., b. June 25, 1880, Dora J., b. Feb. 14, 1884, Arthur J., b. Oct. 21, 1889, and Ruth M., b. Feb. 9, 1892. Thomas J. Lockwood, a brother, served in the 37th Ill. V. I. as 1st Lieut.; wounded through the temples by a gunshot, shot at Champion Hill, and now living in Buda, Ill. Comrade Lockwood's father was among the early settlers of Hinsdale, N. Y. Our veteran has held many public offices; school-trustee, collector, auditor, and assessor. He is an energetic and intelligent man, owning a large farm, dairy and milk route, for the city of Olean. He may be addressed at Hinsdale, N. Y.
