CAPT. STEPHEN WELCH.

A Prominent Civil War Veteran Dead.

A long and vigorous life was brought to a close in Allegany, Mar. 30th, when Stephen Welch, one of its best known and most respected residents, passed away. For the past two or three years he had been gradu- ally failing but it was only for the past few days that he had been con- fined to his bed. Death was due to the feebleness of old age. Stephen Welch, son of Richard and Polly Welch, was born at Groton, N. Y., June 13th, 1824, the third of a family of six children. When about nine years of age he with his parents re- moved to what was then Olean Point, where he remained for a few years, then going to Allegany and to the farm where he has since lived about 55 years. Upon the organization of the 15th regiment during the civil war, he enlisted as a private in Com- pany C, rising to the position of cap- tain before the close of the war. He took part in all the battles fought by that regiment, except during a period of about three months, when he was confined in Andersonville pris- on, including Sherman's March to the Sea. At the close of the war he returned to his farm, and in 1865-67 he was under sheriff of Cattaraugus county, his father being at that time sheriff. In early life he learned the printer's trade and was also a sur- veyor. About the year 1845 he was united in marriage with Louisa Allen, with whom he lived for more than 50 years, she having died in June, 1899. To this union were born nine children of whom six are now living, as follows: Charles of Allegany; Mrs. Mary McGavern of Springville; Rich- ard of Jamestown; Fred S. of Alle- gany; Samuel of Los Angeles, Cal.; and Mrs. Edith Reynolds of Alle- gany. The funeral services were held at the M. E. church, Monday, April 2nd, the Rev. F. A. Johnson offici- ating. Stephen Welch was a man of strong convictions and exerted a com- manding influence in the community in which he lived. His private life was exceptionally clean and the in- fluence which he has left behind will always endear him to the people of Allegany.

Notes on the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Company.

The new home of the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Co. in Roch- ester is an absolutely simple, severely classic exterior in the Ionic order, built in the delicately colored Milford pink granite, and enriched by bronze doors, grilles, and candelabras, en- closes a room, which for completeness of artistic treatment has few equals in modern work, here or abroad. Its walls are of selected Vermont marble, beautifully cut, laid up in deep blocks with the same solidity as the granite exterior. A pilaster treatment is car- ried around the room, enriched by two free-standing columns in solid marble opposite the entrance.

The public space, in the center of the room, is surrounded by a counter of Royal Irish Connemara marble sur- mounted by a screen of bronze of a severe and dignified design. This screen is crowned by a pierced cheneau in which a lion's head emphasizes each Greek Doric column beneath. The openings in the screen to the right and left of the entrance lead into the president's and secretary's rooms. Directly opposite as one comes in from the street are the tellers, while to the right a marble staircase leads down to the safe deposit vaults. Flanking this stairway is a ladies' room on the left, and a customers' room on the right; both are provided with toilets, and from the customers' room a small elevator of unique design de- scends to the level of the vaults below. A pleasant feature of these two rooms, provided for the conven- ience of the clients of the bank, are the open fireplaces. The mahogany furniture and the heavy rugs were especially designed (as was all the furniture and the carpets in the build- ing) for this particular use.

The safe deposit vaults are ample in extent and so planned in connection with the bank-vault that either door acts as an emergency entrance to the other vault, thus obviating lockouts. The vaults are surrounded with a close grille of steel jail-rods embedded in concrete; outside of this concrete wall, which furnishes a perfect pro- tection against attack by means of the electric arc, a passage for the watchman gives access to the space immediately around the vault and be- yond this again is a water-proof brick wall. In case of riot, this whole portion of the basement can be flooded with water.

ACT OF HEROISM.

Tribute to the Memory of the Late Captain Stephen Welch.

Charles W. McKay, late sergeant of Co. C, 154th N. Y. V., relates an act of heroism on the part of the late Capt. Stephen Welch of Allegany:

As a boy I knew Stephen Welch and remember him as a man known among his fellows for his strict integrity, no show or tinsel, but in sterling manhood the peer of any. In July, 1862, when President Lincoln called for 600,000 more men for the prosecution of the war of the Union, he enlisted as a private soldier in Co. C, of the 154th New York Vols.
 The character of his service is indicated by the fact that in 1864 he commanded that company. His brother, Delancey Welch, also enlisted in the same command. I well remember when I signed the roll of the same company in the postoffice there in Allegany, which was then located in Mr. Keyes' hardware store, on the west side of the street. It was my fortune to follow the fortunes of the company, until the day of its final discharge in 1865. Delancey Welch was captured, the first day at Gettysburg, when Bushbeck's brigade of the eleventh corps was thrown into action on the right to save the remnants of the troops who had so gallantly stood off the overwhelming hordes of Hill and Ewell. Delancey was starved to death on Belle Isle. He and I had shared the same blanket for many a month and literally "drank from the same canteen." Perhaps this drew Steve and myself closer, at any rate the captain was my friend to his dying day.
 In the campaign for Atlanta, under the immortal Sherman, during the summer of 1864 for 100 days there was continuous fighting, not a single day but some part of the army was up against the enemy. At the opening of C, which carried the colors, were sent against the confederates who were posted on the summit of Rocky Faced Ridge. In that charge of the 135 men who started 14 were killed out- right, 42 wounded and 12 captured, a total loss of 68. We were driven back about 20 rods, when the lines were re- formed. Steve Welch, then a ser- geant, came to me and said: "Charlie, George Greek lies out there wounded, will you go out and help bring him in?" George Greek was a corporal of our Co., and one of the color guard. He was brought in wounded in both limbs, and Sergeant Welch was the man who saved him from capture. Bear in mind that Greek lay right under the point blank range of the enemy and those who went to his relief, simply exposed their lives in the enterprise. Captain Welch was very justly granted a medal of honor by the congress of the United States for this action, and that medal of honor bears the legend, "For voluntarily risking his life to rescue a wounded comrade." Greater love hath no man than this, that he offer his life for his friends. I have been with Steve Welch in six or eight of the greatest battles of the war, and I never saw him show the least sign of fear. His bravery was of that quiet kind like his life, modest and naturally retiring, but his heart was full of as true a chivalry and as unconquerable a courage as any knight of song and story.
