

Limited Admission

Admission to St. Bonaventure is limited to those applicants who satisfy the University's Committee on Admissions regarding their academic achievement, personality and character. They must present a diploma from an approved secondary school with a minimum of 16 units, including 10 in the academic area and a sequence. Other requirements include satisfactory scores on the College Examination Boards Scholastic Aptitude Test, evidence of academic attainment and potential and a certification of good health. Details of the Admission process appear in the University's Bulletin.

To be admitted to the Department of Journalism, the student should have a high academic standing. Students who have completed the Freshman Arts program and a one-credit course in publication work are admitted as majors in Journalism in their Sophomore year after an interview and upon presentation of evidence of professional interest in communications.

Further Information

Interested students should first write the Dean of Admissions, Hopkins Hall, St. Bonaventure, New York 14778, asking for general information about the University and indicating their interest in journalism. Applicants are encouraged to file early and to arrange with the Dean for a personal interview.

Specific information about the journalism program may be then obtained from the Chairman, Department of Journalism, St. Bonaventure University, St. Bonaventure, New York 14778.
